Dear CFO International Family,

I am writing to you from my new office. I moved to a smaller house, and of course the CFOI office came with me. The new office looks out onto a mountainside, and I am grateful. My help comes from the Lord, who made these beautiful mountains!

“The Camps Farthest Out is a place where people learn how to pray and practice the presence of God, and go home prepared to apply it in every avenue of life; business, home, politics, recreations, hospitals, and above all our churches.”

Glenn Clark
On Wings of Prayer

Right now I am preparing, along with other Board members, for our annual Board of Trustees Meeting in New York. We have been in conversations about the purposes and work of the Board, and whether the current organizational structure might be changed for the better. We are having an open conversation with present and past Board members about how we operate, and how we can best support the growth of camps, prayer groups and other projects around the world. We want to use your gifts of money, as well as everybody’s dedicated time, in the very best ways.

Reports came to me from East Africa and West Africa this week. Our Regional Vice President in Nigeria has great challenges getting access to email, but he is faithful in sending reports and photos to stay connected with the rest of CFOI. Your gifts help him with internet expenses, as well as travel to the camps already established in Nigeria, and new prayer groups in Cameroon and on the border. Please pray for Ekemini Ekong, who is the man in the hat in the back row in the photo. Nigeria is working with CFO youth training, and already saving up for 11th International in 2017.

East Africa Region also sent in news this week, and they continue to be strong in training. Their CFO trainers have traveled to many camps, and their Regional Vice President, Erastus Omukhango, was helped by your gifts to visit Malawi, as well as camps in Kenya. He will be attending the Board meeting in New York this month, for which we are most grateful!

As we continue to pray for Europe Region, especially Ukraine, and stay connected with Asia, South Pacific and Latin America, thank you for supporting CFO International. Our Bond of Love needs to continue, and we can become a stronger force for peace in this world.

Glenn Clark wrote, “The purpose of this camp is to bring every atom, every fiber, every cell, every muscle and every sinew of body, mind and soul into complete and harmonious adjustment to the great rhythms of the spirit.” May we continue together in that vision for each of God’s people in all of the nations, walking together in love.
