

What if?

...each person reading this flyer made a personal commitment to an action step as inspired by the Holy Spirit?

...each gathering/prayer group/camp etc. became "a place where people can draw apart and rest awhile, and become immersed in the great Realities of this deep inner realm which Jesus called the Kingdom of Heaven."

...the prayer of each Council Ring became "How can we empty anger and fear out of our lives and fill in with the spirit of poise, courage, and creative Love . . . How can we do our share in bringing the Kingdom of Heaven from invisibility into visibility in the lives of men?"

Why It Is Called Camp Farthest Out, Glenn Clark, 1930

LIVING OUR HERITAGE

The year was 2010 and the CFOI Office was moving. A team of dedicated volunteers took responsibility for the vast collection of heritage books and literature that were housed in the office. That team is now the Living our Heritage Library Team.

Our name - Living Our Heritage - is the result of listening together and dreaming for how to get the message of our rich heritage out to what we perceive as a rich new culture—brimming with questions which our heritage materials address.

We are feeling called to share with you such wisdom as found in a 1930 writing by Glenn Clark titled:

Why It is Called Camp Farthest Out

"Don't come to the Camp Farthest Out expecting to find a beautiful new place... come expecting to find a beautiful new state of consciousness."

"How can we integrate our lives on a large enough plane to give God a place in the integration?"

"How can we reconcile the great discoveries of modern science with the great inner laws of the spirit as proclaimed in the gospels?"

"How can we bring every fibre of our being-physical, mental, and spiritual-into complete and effective Spiritual Expression in every avenue of our lives?"

We invite you to join us in seeking, asking, receiving and responding to the flow of inspiration which comes to us.

What if

"Every year (during a camp) we give deep consecrated study and prayer to some large, national or international problems of the day . . ." and the high points of the Camp are . . . the united prayer where these hard, pressing problems of suffering humanity are given most completely and utterly to God." Islands of Light, 1936

Or

We commit to a prayer focus such as the following from The Minute Man, 1938, adapted:

Knowing

that you are the God of Love, and

Trusting

to the promise that where two or three agree together asking anything in the love and Spirit of Jesus Christ that their prayer will be granted,

We agree together in putting our nations and our world utterly and completely into your hands for the perfect solution of our needs in accordance with your infinite Wisdom and infinite Love.

Or

We commit to a prayer focus such as the following Call to Action from Glenn Clark as shared in an unpublished manuscript, 1956.

"The particular wish that I hold deep in my heart . . . is that God will take full control of all the governments of the world and will bring almost immediate peace upon this earth through universal recognition of the brotherhood of man . . ."
